

BIG CHECK. BIG COVERAGE. BIG RELIEF. POWERED LOCALLY.

Along with their families, Pete Graff (center) and his father Dan (r) received a check from Tom Judnic, energy manager, Medford Coop (l). The Cenex Total Protection Plan® covered over $12,000 worth of repairs on their John Deere tractors.

As a fourth-generation farmer, Pete Graff's family operation has been using Cenex® fuels and lubricants for as long as he can remember. Rambling Acres, Inc., located in Stetsonville, Wisc., has around 400 milking cows and 2,000 acres of corn, soybeans, and alfalfa.

When they purchased new tractors, they were told about the Cenex Total Protection Plan®. "We had never heard anything about it, but the plan wasn't that expensive, so we thought we'd give it a try," Graff says.

He was glad they did. This past year, routine oil scans required by the program found issues on two of their tractors. "We caught the first issue as it was happening during planting. We limped the tractor through planting and they fixed it between first and second crop," says Graff. "The other oil scan came back just as we were finishing up in the fall with the other tractor. So we just parked it once we got the oil scan back that said to quit running. It timed out just right."

"This was all caught because we did the oil scan. I do oil scans just for that reason, so I don't have a surprise when it's up to the planter in the middle of May."

Graff was pleased with how the claims process worked on their machines. Once the oil scans showed issues, Medford Coop helped the Graff family with their claim. After having the coop and service manager exchange numbers, "All of a sudden everything was taken care of, fixed, and paid for," Graff says. "Pretty simple."

The Cenex Total Protection Plan® more than paid off for the Graff family, and helped them avoid downtime during their busiest seasons. "You never want to have to use insurance and have something happen," says Graff. "But it did, and I was glad we had the plan."
